ANNA WAGNER INDICTED. Charged with Murdering Three Members of the Koesters Family. Anna Wagner again occupies a cell in the county jail, being held for the murder of Mary, Frank and Clara Koesters. The grand jury yesterday afternoon made their report and returned three indictments against her, charging her with poisoning the three persons named. Her attorney expected that she would be indicted, and she was prepared for it, and had come down to the office of her attorney and was there waiting to hear the result of the grand jury's consideration of her case; her attorney was in the Criminal Court room when the grand jury made their report, and immediately went to his office and notified her of her indictment. She went to the sheriff's office at once, in company with her brother-in-law, and surrendered herself to the sheriff. She reached the of-fice just as bailiff Sheeban of the Criminal Court came down with the capies for her arrest and was at once taken into custody and conducted to the jail. where she was seen by a reporter a few minutes later, and said she had nothing more to say than what she had already said. She is held without bail.

LON HENDERSON'S INDICTMENTS. Grand Jury Charges Him with Murder and

Burglary. In the indictments returned by the grand jury yesterday were two against Lon Henderson. One charges him, jointly with John Shipman, with the burglary of Otto Schmidt's saloon at the corner of Delaware and McCarty streets on the night of June 17 and the theft of $11. The other is for the murder of John Tarpey, at Haughville, on the night of June 1, to which he has confessed. So far as his confession goes it only gives ground for manslaughter, but the prosecutor believes he can prove a case the Superior Court. Judge Harper yesterday temporarily granted the petition of Marous L. The petitioner alleged that he was the owner of the property situated at No. 500 North Pennsylvania street, in front of which are several large shade trees standing in the

The petitioner alleges that there is a good, newly-laid, brick sidewalk in front of the property, which is sufficient for the purpose, and that, in putting down the cement sidewalk, the contractors will make excavations to a depth of sixteen inches, cutting the roots of the shade trees, and filling in the excavation with gravel and cinders, thereby causing the trees to die. The complaint was filed yesterday morning, and at once taken before Judge Harper, who granted a temporary restraining order, preventing the contractors from proceeding with the work until July 14.

CONCORDIA BUILDING ASSOCIATION. Bank of Commerce Avers That Secretary

Smith Misappropriated Funds. The transactions of August C. Smith, the secretary of the Concordia, No. 4, Saving and Loan Association, were again the cause of a suit in the courts yesterday. The Bank of Commerce files suit as a member of the association asking for the appointment of a receiver, charging misconduct on the part of the officers, and a falsification of the books and appropriation of the funds of the association for private purposes by the secretary, who has since left

Bad Son of a Good Father. In the Police Court, yesterday morning, Frank Stinson was arraigned as a known thief and the case was continued. Stinson comes from one of the best-known families in the State. His father was elected prosecuting attorney in Warren county for three successive terms, and his grandfather served one term as Lieutenant Governor of the State. W. M. Moore and Ella Betzner were before the court for fast driving, and were fined $25 and costs each. Moore went to the workhouse in default of payment, and the fine assessed against the girl was stayed.

Grand Jury's Work. The following additional indicaments were returned by the grand jury yesterday: Mike Cline, embezzlement; John Frank, petit larceny; Al Wright and Harry Paris, petit larceny; William Stupy, grand larceny. The grand jury found the evidence insufficient to indict Francis Bell for grand larceny, David Bartlett for burglary and James Miller for assault and battery with intent to kill, and recommended their discharge. Their report shows: Number of witnesses examined, 153; number of indictments returned, 29; number of cases continued, 2, and number of cases dismissed, &

For Breach of Contract.

John Wilson yesterday began suit against W. H. Baker for the alleged breach of a contract. Sent to the Reformatory. Vanchie Wilson, a fourteen-year-old girl, was sent to the Reform School for Girls by Judge Cox yesterday morning upon the petition of her mother charging incorrigibility. The mother says that she is employed as a domestic and is unable to have the girl under her constant care and at-tention, but has provided her with homes with friends and relatives, but she would leave the homes provided and remain out late at night with evil companions and frequent evil resorts.

Executive Board Makes a General Round-Up of Encampment Work.

Chairmen of the Various Committees Report Upon What They Have Done-For Commander-in-Chief.

The executive committee of the National G. A. R. Encampment met yesterday afternoon and heard the reports of the various committees. A general resume of the work so far accomplished was given, and recommendations for new features were made. The meeting was fairly well attended.

The report of the committee on public order, consisting of the Board of Public Safety and the Mayor, occasioned some little comment by reason of the large number of special police recommended for encampment week, together with the large expense. Mr. E. S. Hawkins submitted the report, which embraced the estimates made by Superintendent Colbert as to the cost of the extra detail of men. It was recommended that fifty special policemen be appointed for Sept. 1, 2 and 8; four hundred specials for the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th; thirty-five specials for the 10th, 11th and 12th. It was further recommended that ten experienced detectives from the principal cities of the country be employed at $8 a day for ten days. The plan of Superintendent Colbert contemplated the division of the city during encampment week into fifty police districts with a man on duty in each district in the day time and two at night. These districts are to be arranged into six precincts with an officer in charge of each precinct. An office is to be provided in each precinct and a telephone put in. A patrol wagon is to be attached to each precinct office. It was also provided in the report that fifteen experienced policemen be chosen as detectives. The superintendent asked that the department have entire charge of the streets on the line of march at 6 o'clock in the morning. An ambulance service was to be established. For the special officers, badges and soft white caps were suggested. So many arrests are contemplated, by reason of the immense crowd, that the superintendent wanted the use of both the old and the new jail for the safe keeping of prisoners, and is would also be necessary to lend some aid to the Police Court judge in disposing of the prisoners' cases. Fifty horses would be needed for the police on the day of the parade and twenty-five horses for patrol duty. The following is the estimated

$2.25. Twenty-five special officers, three days, I'en detectives, ten days, at $8 a day ... 544.00 Horses 500.00 Badges and hats.....

Total.....$7,960.25 The superintendent suggested that the executive committee take some action at once, as some little time would be required to complete all these arrangements. The report was referred to the auditing and finance committees. Executive Director Fort me summarized the progress of the encampment work. He said that headquarters had been provided for each department at the Statehouse, and arrangements made for accommodating over 100,000 people. All the schoolhouses and many of the public halls have been secured for quarters for the veterans. In the East Washington-street barracks from 12,000 to 13,000 people are to be quartered, and the barracks on Louisiana street will accommodate 3,500 more. It is estimated that the attendance at Indianapolis will be 40 per cent. greater than it was at Washington, and the greater part of this increased attendance will come from the West. Director Fortune stated that the committee would have to fix a date upon which he could begin to notify the posts that no more accommodations could be provided. He thought this day would have to be fixed early in August. At Washington provisions were made for furnishing about 55,000 thousand people with free quarters, and it was afterwards found that the committee had quarters for 5,000 unoccupied. Free quarters will be provided in this city for 46,000, divided as follows: Schoolhouses, 11,000; halls, 11,000; Randolph-street barracks, 13,000; Louisianastreet barracks, 3,300; Madison-avenue barracks, 3,000; other free accommodations,

So far contracts have been entered into calling for the expenditure of $18,805. This includes a contract for 20,000 cots. The contract for the fireworks was closed yesterday, and the committee congratulates itself on the advantageous bargain

The auditing committee reported that the balance sheets of the officials were correet. There is a balance in the citizens' fund of $20,000, but the contracts made absorb all of this,

Mrs. Flora Wulschner, chairman of t Woman's Relief Corps committee, told the executive committee that her committee had made suitable arrangements for entertaining the Relief Corps. On Tuesday evening of encampment week a reception is to be given at Tomlinson hall, and ex-President Harrison, Governor Matthews and other distinguished men are to be invited to make addresses. Lemonade is to be served in the hall on this evening. A brass band has also been engaged for the occasion. Luncheons are to be given to the ladies on convention days.

Col. I. N. Walker spoke for the reception committee. He said his committee had no use for money ebcept to hire a few carriages. Colonel Walker also added that he thought the committee on public order wanted about twice as much money as was needed. He thought two hundred special police would be sufficient.

Capt. W. H. Armstrong, of the committee on entertainment, said that his committee wanted to give the visiting delegates and invited guests an excursion to the gas fields.

Commander-in-chief Weissert, of the G. A. R., will be here on Saturday, and at that time he will fix the line of march for the big parade. The line has been practically determined upon, but it must first meet his approval. The committee on music reported that contracts had been sent to twenty-seven brass bands in the State, and two of the bands have been assigned positions. The work accomplished by the camp-fire committee has already been noticed. Camp fires are to be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Tomlinson Hall, Masonic Hall and several of the churches. All the badges of the local committees will be of one color-yellow. The encampment workers are pleased at the concessions obtained from the traffic associations in the matter of rates. John S. Lazarus is now in Chicago making further arrangements with the Central Traffic Association. It is believed the Trunk-line Association will make the same rate as that conceded by the Central asso-

The committee on illumination showed that the members had provided for the illumination of the monument with electric lights. The natural gas companies will make free displays.

The war pageantry has not yet been determined upon, but it will be given if a place for it can be found on the programme. It will cost between $3,000 and 5,000. Horses and trappings for the parade will cost $5 each.

Dr. Elder exhibited the plan the medical committee had in view for looking after the sick and injured. It is estimated that there will be five hundred cases requiring careful attention, and probably twentyfive hundred will need temporary aid. The gratuitous services of 146 physicians have been tendered the committee. A hospital tent is to be erected, and provisions have been made for eight ambulances. On the day of the parade emergency stations are to be placed on the streets. The medcal department will probably cost $4,450. The members of the press of Indianapolis have made some provisions for the accommodation of their visiting brethren. The telegraph companies have been asked to station operators in the Press Club rooms. A tent is to be placed in Military Park for the visiting newspaper men. In order that strangers may receive sufficient information twenty-nine booths are to be placed on the streets, and well-posted men are to be stationed at these booths to answer questions.

Before the meeting of the executive committee adjourned Colonel Walker made a strong plea for lawn decorations. He said there was nothing that appealed to the old soldier's heart so much as to see his army corps badge looming up in flowers on some well-kept lawn. It made the soldier feel that the people had been thinking about the encampment for some time before he came to the city. Another member of the committee suggested that a huge advertisement banner be stretched in the Union Station, so that traveling people would know that the G. A. R. encampment was to be held in Indianapolis in September.

Commander-in-Chief for Next Year. Upon the most reliable authority in the East the Journal can state that Capt. John Taylor, who has for several years been quartermaster-general of the Grand Army of the Republic, but who was succeeded by Past Commander-in-chief Louis Wagner a few weeks since, will not be a candidate for commander-in-chief at the next encampment. He would have had little opposition. Among those who are now mentioned are Capt. J. J. B. Adams, Boston, Mass.; Gen. E. Burd Grubb, late minister to Spain, of New Jersey; I. F. Mack, editor of the Sandusky, O., Register; Gen. S. H. Hurst, of Ohio, and Mr. Dieston, of Quincy, Ill. The retirement of Captain Taylor will give an additional topic of interest to the National Encampment.

Carroll County Monument,

The Carroll county Union soldiers' and sailors' monument at Delphi will be unveiled July 27. This is the largest and handsomest monument in the State erected in benor of Union soldiers only, and was erected by Carroll county to commemorate the services of her soldiers and sailors during the war. The exercises will be conquoted by Department Commander Johnston and staff, and will be attended by delegations from all over the State, reduced rates having been obtained on all the railroads.

All Are Wanted in the Parade. Letters are received daily at the State G. A. Department Commander Johnston wants it understood that every old soldier, in good standing with his post, whether wearing a uniform or not, is wanted in the parade.

Several members declared that if the post was to continue as an independent organization they were prepared to hand in their resignations, but after a stormy war of words the motion to apply for a new charter was defeated by an overwhelming majority. MRS. KLINE DENIES.

She Had No Quarrel with Her Husband on the Morning of the Murder.

A special to the Journal from Madison

Mrs. Louisa Gaumer Kline, widow of William Kline, is stopping with her uncle. Mr. George Mckinney, in the city, and when among friends continues to talk freely concerning the death of her husband and the circumstances preceding and following the awful tragedy. She has read the statements copied the Madison papers those at Indianapolis since she left home. and is astonished and grieved over some of the stories alleged to have been told. She still maintains her entire innocence. She says it is not true, as stated by a witness before the coroner, that she and her husband quarreled on the morning of the murder, nor that he whipped their little daughter Belle that morning. She declares it is not true that she ever said she could have killed a certain woman, and that she felt like killing her every time she saw her. On the contrary, it was in reference to that woman that Mrs. Kline had remarked how mad she looked when they met; that this woman looked as thought she could kill ber (Mrs. Kline) every time she saw her. One after another of the statements which have appeared in the testimony before the coroner were taken up, explained and refuted by Mrs. Kline, who will put the damaging utterances into her attorney's hands on her return home, and bring her false accusers to answer for the great wrongs they have tried to heap upon her.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT DOLLAR.

Coin So Nearly Like the Genuine that a Bank Pronounced It All Right

C. L. Esbey yesterday afternoon received in change from Mr. Fitzpatrick, in the State Librarian's office, a counterfeit silver dollar which was such a clever imitation that it almost baffied detection. Mr. Fitzpatrick was, of course, unaware of its nature. It had the clear, sharp ring of a genuine coin, and could only be detected by its weight. Mr. Esbey received the coin in change, and a short time afterwards offered it in payment for a drink, at Harry Walker's, on East Court street, The bar-tender refused the com, saying that he believed it to be counterfeit. Esbey remarked that he would like to have a barrel of coms just it was a genuine coin. HOW TO FIND THE COMET

Can Be Seen with the Naked Eye Below the Big Dipper in the Northwest.

Its Head Is Very Bright and Its Tail Has Several Branches-Professor Wiggins Says Another Comet Is Due in a Few Weeks.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 13.-The new comet has been photographed twice at the Winchester Observatory, Yale, by Mr. John E. Lewis. The first negative, made on Mondetail. The head is very bright and the tail streams out from it a distance of seven degrees. The tail, near the head, is shown to be composed of several branches, one of which turns at quite an angle a little distance from the head. About the middle of the principal tail another one seems to shoot out from it, resembling somewhat Professor Barnard's famous photographs of Swift's comet in 1892, though not so distinct. Another plate, made Tuesday evening, shows the head but hardly any of the tail, as the sky was very hazy.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 13.-Prof. William W. Payne writes from Goodsell Observatory, at Northfield, Minu., that Dr. H. C. Wilson obtained two photographs, one with a small camera and the other by the aid of an eight and one-quarter inch photograph telescope. In the photograph the tail looks like a bundle of separate streamers rather than a single uniform straight train. Just behind the head, on each side of the main train, a narrow long streamer is seen, the two making different small angles with the main axis of the tail. The apparent activity of the comet's nucleus promises something interesting in the near future. The comet is moving away from the sun and is probably approaching the earth. It cannot be settled whether the comet is new or old unti some time has elapsed to determine its orbit. S. J. Corrigan, of St. Paul, declares that the new comet is that of 1819.

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 13.—A dispatch from Prof. E. S. Holden, of Lick Observatory, says an orbit of the new comet has been calculated by Professor Boss. It is approximate only. It indicates that during July the comet will move rapidly east and south, and that its light will decrease. The comet will be nearest the sun on July 22. sey show a tail more than ten degrees long.

As It Appeared Tuesday Night. The Boston Transcript thus describes the comet, as it appeared Tuesday night: "The comet is easily visible to the naked eye as a fairly bright and ill defined etar, the latter characteristic making evident its cometic nature to the practiced server. To the ordinary citizen, however, it may prove disappointing in a measure. since the first statements of its brightness come from astronomers who are used to comets of exceeding faintness, and to whom a comet visible to the naked eye is indeed of comparatively great brilliancy. It is much brighter than the Holmes comet of last year, and is excellently situated for observation in the early evening. In a small opera glass its diffused cometic na-ture is unmistakable, while in a field glass or a small telescope it is a very pretty ob-

"It consists of a large, round head or nocleus, from which a tail, a faint band of light, streams almost vertically upward. This tail could be traced last evening for a distance of about five degrees, although it is only fair to say that the determination of the extent of a very faint glow like this depends upon such faculties of vision and imagination that the most conscientions of observers will vary greatly in their estimates. It is, however, very well worth the trouble of finding, providing one does not expect too much and can lay aside for a moment the memories of the magnificence of the comets of the early sixties and those of about ten years ago. "It is easily found with the naked eye, and is considerably brighter than any of the stars in the immediate vicinity. The fears expressed yesterday, which were based upon the earlier dispatches, that the comet could be seen only after sunset, are not altogether justified, for until half-past 10 o'clock last evening the object was easily seen. Its position in the sky is in the northwest, and its elevation above the horizon is considerable-some fifteen or twenty degrees in the early evening. "The constellation of the Great Bear, or the Big Dipper, asitis popularly known, can be found by any one at all conversant with the configuration of the constellations. Below this Great Dipper hangs the 'Tassels,' two elongated isosceles triangles of third magnitude stars, familiar to those who have studied this part of the sky. Below the more northern of these, at a distance of not more than three degrees, may be found the comet, changing its position in a southwesterly direction at the rate of about five degrees a day. Those who are not already familiar with the 'Tassels' may find their way to the comet from the dipper, step by step, among the stars in the following manner. "Trace the diagonal of the dipper downward, beginning with the star at the junction of the handle and the bowl, through the star which forms the lower angle of the bottom with the side-the lower one of the pointers. Continue this line downwards a times the diagonal of the Dipper itself. The bright star found at this point, a thirdmagnitude star, forms the apex of the tassel, the two other stars, which are of nearly equal brightness, being almost vertically below it at a distance of the separation of the pointers, or about the field of a small opera giass. Immediately below these two stars, to the left, and at a distance somewhat less than the separation of the stars themselves, the comet ought to be et is difficut to catch, but by about 9 o'clock the remnants of sunlight being entirely gone, the object may be easily found It is a pretty comet, with well-defined head, and well worth the trouble of lookit up. It is, of course, too early at this time to make any statement as to its course or its conduct. It is apparently on its way to the sun, and if this be the case, and its path be not too direct, it may become much more brilliant than it is at the present time, before we lose sight of it in the haze of twilight."

Professor Wiggins's Discovery. OTTAWA, Ont., July 18.—Professor Wiggins says that in two or three weeks a very brilliant comet will be seen in the northern sky. He has been watching for some weeks for a comet which, he says, is the large variable star seen by Cornelius Gemma, in day evening, showed extremely interesting | 1570, in the constellation of Cassiopœia, as its reappearance was about due. In 1864 he announced that Gemma's star, usually called the Star of Bethlehem, was only a large comet at its perihelion, when its tail surrounded it and gave it the appearance of a star of the first magnitude. He considers that his theory has been proved now. for on the night of the 8th inst. he saw, for a few minutes, between clouds and near the pole of the heavens, a star of the sixth magnitude, moving rapidly sunward, which he pronounces a comet and which is seeking a nearer perihelion than in 1570. On its return from the sun it will be very brilliant. It is now, he says, probably below the horizon.

WAR ON TAMMANY.

Organization of a Democratic Anti-Sheehan-Murphy-Croker Party at New York.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The first blow at Tammany domination was struck at the meeting of the Citizens' Democracy of the Seventh Assembly district, at First avenue and Third street, last night, when permanent organization of the new political party was effected. Otto Kempner was loudly cheered as he rose to speak. "This gathering," he said, "marks the birth of an organization which proposes to recognize the will of citizens as the highest law, and to see that the masses, and not the bosses, shall rule the city. The Citizens' Democracy has no prearranged programme fixed by one irresponsible individual. Its candidates shall not be the body servants of a self-constituted dictator, but the faithful representatives of the will of their constituents. The citizens of and State bave uncrowned kings to nullify the principles of constitutional liberty. The triumvirate composed of Murphy, Sheehan and Croker have reduced freedom to a shadow. Our aim is to restore its substance. Let us wage unrelenting war on Murphy machines. Sheenan legislation and Croker kingdoms. That is the purpose that animates the leaders of the Citizens' Democracy. We call upon you to do your duty and victory will be ours." Mr. Kempner offered a resolution, which was promptly passed, that the executive committee be authorized to make arrangements to call a mass meeting, in the latter part of September, to nominate a committee of one hundred to take charge of the organization until such time as all the Assembly districts shall send representatives to's county organization. The meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the chair, with loud cheers for the Citizens' Democracy.
